

Ordinary Blackness: On the Aesthetics of Medicine for Melancholy

Research Workshop

November 8

Noon—339 O'Shaughnessy

Kinohi Nishikawa

Assistant Professor, English

Children's Store

Kinohi Nishikawa earned his Ph.D. in Literature and Certificate in Feminist Studies from Duke and is Assistant Professor of English and Research Faculty in Gender Studies. His research focuses on modern African American print and visual cultures, with an emphasis on cinema, book design, and popular literature. His book manuscript is titled Reading the Street: Black Pulp Fiction in Post-Civil Rights America.

Sponsored by the Gender Studies Program

 UNIVERSITY OF
NOTRE DAME
College of Arts and Letters